AN HOUR WITH THE PRESIDENT.

"How is my good friend this morning?"

"Mr. President, this is Mr. Bjing Bionee of Tusculum."

"De-light-ed!"

"Mr. President, this is Mayor Maybury of Detroit, who wants to talk with you about your visit to that city."

"De-light-ed!"

"Mayor Maybury, de-light-ed, I assure you. I shall come to Detroit. I shall visit your great city. Cortelyou; where's Cortelyou?"

Cortelyou appeared as if he came up through a star trap—marvelous Cortelyou, who is always where he is wanted when he is wanted.

"Cortelyou, I must stay longer in Detroit than we had planned. Take a day off Cincinnati and put it on Detroit. De-light-ed, Mayor Maybury, I assure you."

"Mr. President," said Representative Joy, hastily, "this is Mr. William Saunders of St. Louis, who comes to invite you to that city."

"Glorious! I am delighted Mr. Saunders. I shall visit your great city. Cortelyou; where's Cortelyou? Make the itinerary. I will stop at St. Louis. De-light-ed, Mr. Saunders, I assure you."

Then the President zigzagged across the room, picking at the flower of statesmanship here and plucking a prominent citizen there. It lasted half an hour. Suddenly he bounced through the green baize doors, staying a minute and out he popped again.

He had a card in his hand. "Southard!" he said, and the Toledo representative came forward.

"Mr. President," began Southard, "Toledo wants you to—"

"De-light-ed! I shall visit you—"

He spied a man across the room and jumped away from Southard to put his hands on the other man's shoulders and began an earnest talk with him.

"It's all right," said Cortelyou to Southard. Southard stood on one foot and then on the other. Ten minutes later the President came back.

"Excuse me," he said. "I forgot. I shall be de-light-ed, I assure you."

The President is boiling over with enthusiasm about his trip. He has planned to sweep the country. He is accepting invitations right and left, and changing schedules so rapidly that Secretary Cortelyou is sweating blood to keep things straight. Everybody wants the President, and, if he had his way, everybody would get him. He has in mind the greatest "swing around the circle" attempted by any President since Johnson.

MINT JULEPS.

More Poetry than Alcohol in the Famous Beverage

[New York Sun.]

If the Richmond Dispatch is not mistaken, there is not so much demand for mint juleps in Virginia as there used to be. There are not so many old-fashioned gardens with their patches of mint. Perhaps the great artists, the consummate compounders of mint juleps, have passed away with so many of the good old judges and colonels and mayors, the fine gentlemen with frilled shirt bosoms and ceremonious manners, who used to beam upon Washington occasionally, and where the ornament and honor of many southern communities, and those communities, prosper as they may in commerce or agriculture, will produce no finer articles than those same gentlemen. It is a sort of blasphemy to classify the mint julep with the now apparently maribund collection of mixed drink. It stood alone, which was more than some of its too ardent devotees could always do. It was a bouquet and a poem. More than that it was, and is, in its way, the flower and expression of a phase of life that has passed.

In the north it has no proper place. It is exotic that droops under transplantation. There are legends and myths of great men of the heroic age who knew how to make mint julep in this town. We have heard praises of past time land the New York hotel, and aver that the juleps of its most high and palmy state were a delight and a desire. Gone, or all but gone, is that old race of epicures and toppers, having some smack of the earlier and coarser age who celebrates the pro-ess of Lord Seymour drinking his seventeenth consecutive cocktail at the ball of the New York and falling in the arms of Victory—or was it a distinguished resident of a New York city who won in that noble competition?

But cocktails throw no light on juleps. Could Joe Fernandez of the New York hotel make an acceptable julep? Certainly he could, said the man of reminiscence, or the southerners wouldn't have stayed at the hotel. Well, Joe Fernandez resappeared at the New York hotel in the early eighties, but we never heard that he had the hand and every foot a mint julep. Jerry Thomas, once famous from San Francisco to Broadway and according to himself, the inventor of the Tom and Jerry a drink that seems to have vanished as absolutely as the dodo—you ought to have seen Jerry Thomas mix a julep, the ancient would tell you. Jerry, obscure and fallen from his high estate and surrounded by caricatures of famous and unknown New Yorkers and others gleamed with faint alcoholic and reminiscence light in Sixth avenue twenty years and more; but he had lost the secret, if ever he had it for the mint julep.

It is said that the barkeepers of the young school have little opportunity to mix anything except seltzer and milk. The progress of total abstinence and the passion for whiskey and water, or "high balls" must tend to keep the young barkeeper's education in a state of arrested development. But even maturer and more skillful chemists in New York might dabble in vain at fusing the elements of this classic composition. The mint looks dusty, withered, homesick in the north. We have seen, even in the clubs where should be reverence for the old masters, supposed juleps in which a mess of seaweed seemed to be partially immersed in a sea of kerosene oil. Only on southern soil will this flower blossom.

Let us say for the relief of our prohibitionist friends, that we regard mint julep in a purely romantic and bookish light. To us it belongs in the category with the continuous, harmless impossible gussing of Mr. Pickwick's journey to Birmingham with Mr. Bob Sawyer and Mr. Benjamin Allen. We look upon it as a rich relation of brandy and water "luke" of three pennyworth of rum, of port wine negus, of flip, of blackstrap, of that Harvard commencement punch, which flows no more, alas, no more! Mint julep is real in the south, but only a dream here. The veranda of an old, white, Doric, or Ionic-pillared house. The Potomac, York, any river in the foreground. A young lady of the happy ante-Gibsonian days and proportions steps out of a window which is a door, trips into the garden, brings back some mint, mixes with incomparable grace incomparable juleps. There is plenty of money. Slavery is a divine institution. You are half inclined to believe that mint julep is life. Life is as placid as the river and agreeable as the julep.

The mint julep has more poetry than alcohol in it. If it is dying out in Virginia, there should be a society to revive it.

Headache

kills, not necessarily suddenly, but SURELY. It preys upon the intellectual powers more than we realize. It consumes the vitality faster than nature can replenish it, and we cannot tell just what moment a temporary or complete aberration of the mind will result. Headache and pain should be promptly removed—but properly. Many pain cures are more harmful than the pain. Beware. If you would be safe, take

Dr. Miles' Pain Pills.

"As a result of neuralgia I lost the sight of my right eye, and the pain I have suffered is incomprehensible, being obliged to take opiates almost continually. A friend gave me one of Dr. Miles' Pain Pills and it promptly relieved me. I then purchased a box and now my trouble is gone. They have also cured my daughter of nervous headache, and I heartily recommend them to others."—W. J. CONLEY, Bremont, Texas.

Wood's Seeds.

Late Potatoes.

Our system of keeping Late Seed Potatoes unsprouted and in vigorous, ready-to-grow condition when planted enables them to stand the driest or hottest spells of summer weather, making splendid crops during the fall, ready to dig just before winter comes on. Crop results the past three seasons, from these potatoes planted in June and July, have been most satisfactory.

Our stock in cold storage is limited, so that it is advisable to place orders early to avoid being disappointed in securing your seed potatoes when ready to plant. Circular giving prices and full information mailed on request.

WOMAN

HER CARE AND HAPPINESS.

Never did women accept the truth of Mother's Friend more willingly than those thousands who have tried it. The prime object in a medicine for expectant mothers is safety and virtue, qualifications impossible to find in internal doses made of nasty, injurious and stimulating drugs.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

is a liniment rubbed in with the hands—something to lubricate the internal tissues and muscles. Something gentle, comforting and refreshing; a balm for the nerves, a softener for the cords holding the heavy burden, an invigorator for the muscles, making them elastic, thereby permitting with ease expansion as the fetus grows to be a live baby.

Mother's Friend is the only liniment that will make the issue of pregnancy easy and leave the child healthy, and the mother with all her grace and symmetry unmarred. Of course, $1.00. Our book "Motherhood" mailed free. THE BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA.
